Commitment to Safety in the Wake of Tragedy
CPPC’s Response to the Reagan National Airport Collision

Fellow Professional Pilot,

Following the recent tragic collision between a CRJ700 operating for American Airlines and a UH-60 Blackhawk at Reagan Washington National Airport, our thoughts and condolences are with the families, friends, and colleagues of those involved. We also recognize the tireless efforts of first responders and support staff managing the situation.

While aviation remains the safest mode of public transportation, this is a stark reminder that safety-related incidents still occur. The CPPC is dedicated to upholding the highest standards of safety and operational procedures, continuously striving for excellence in commercial aviation. Through awareness, investigation reports, and information sharing, we can all contribute to fostering a culture of best practices within the industry.

Finally, the CPPC does not support speculation and believes in distributing factual information only after the release of the final reports by the designated authorities after their thorough investigations.

As unfortunate as this and other recent incidents are, let them serve as reminders to all aviators that safety is our number one priority and that we must always strive for excellence, adhere to regulations and SOPs, and to remain vigilant.

Together we soar !
